

Walk in my shoes... understand me

Not all disabilities are visible or vocal

Let us not assume... let us keep being kind.

How would I know if someone with a disability needed support?
You might not know... It is OK to ask.

It is not OK to judge or assume.
It is ok to consider and be kind.

Some disabilities are visible, some are not.
Every person is their own individual with needs and behaviours and feelings we may not always understand.

It is ok to not always understand,
but it is not ok to not want to try to.
